ITTE 2010

Dear Members

Here is the event all of you have been waiting for!

TAAI's own Travel and Tourism Exhibition, an exclusive B2B Exhibition promoting Inbound / Outbound / MICE / Domestic / Medical Tourism / Special Interest Tours / Wellness Tourism and all other categories of tourism - ITTE 2010.

The India Travel Trade Expo- ITTE is being held from 6th - 7th August 2010, World Trade Center, Cuffe Parade, Mumbai.

Mumbai has been chosen for this event being one of the fastest growing industrial city the world over. What's more, in completion of its 50 years of Independence, the Government of Maharashtra along with MTDC and MEDC are celebrating its year long Golden Jubilee programs from 2010-2011 with the launch of its "Visit Golden Maharashtra", and have become our key state partner.

The rapid growth of India's inbound tourism industry has been instrumental in making Asia the most preferred tourist destination as noted by the UN World Tourism Organization (UNWTO). On the other hand, a booming economy and increase in disposable income has led to a massive growth in the number of Indians traveling abroad. Thus ITTE is the ideal networking platform for all stakeholders in our industry. Be sure to be there to avail of this opportunity to meet your trade partners all under one roof.

See you there!

Bangkok Is Back!

by Dick Slaker July 09, 2010

(California travel agent Dick Slaker was invited by the Tourism Authority of Thailand to visit the country as TAT seeks to revive tourism in the wake of the political demonstrations in Bangkok last spring. Slaker's report follows.)

The headlines we saw shared the following news: "Bangkok is Back!" And after a recent tour of Bangkok and other destinations in Thailand, I can report that Bangkok is back indeed.

The Tourism Authority of Thailand (TAT) hosted our group as part of its strategy to revive tourism to Thailand, which was badly hurt of the Red Shirts uprising in the Thai capital earlier this year.

We met with TAT Governor Suraphon Svetasreni and his staff for a question and answer session about Thailand and Bangkok in particular.

During the discussion, we found out that TAT aims to attract 13.4 foreign visitors in 2011 with a stepped up marketing program that will focus on key markets of China, Japan, the UK and the U.S.

we met with the governor, a TAT delegation was preparing to attend a trade show in Beijing along with 30 Thailand tour operators as part of its strategy to grow that market from 850,000 Chinese visitors last year to 1 million in 2011.

TAT also has put a visa fee waiver program into effect to attract more foreign tourists.

The situation is already returning to normal. According to official data, international passengers arriving at Suvarnabhumi International Airport totaled 540,788 during June. While TAT reported that this was a 6.8% decline from the same period of 2009, the June figures were a clear indication that the rate of decline has slowed significantly from the 19% drop in visitor arrivals in May vs. May 2009.

TAT Governor Suraphon Svetasreni said, "The entire tourism industry has come together and is moving ahead to overcome the downturn. We are hopeful that these measures will succeed and the industry will still be able to attain its target of 14.8 million arrivals for 2010.".....

Turkish Visa on Arrival for Indians

The Turkish Embassy at New Delhi has announced that Indian passport holders bearing valid Schengen, UK or USA visas are being granted 30-day-valid entry visas at the border gates of Turkey upon their arrival. Indian citizens, who wish to obtain the visa on arrival in Turkey, would be required to submit information about their hotel reservations, one passport size photograph, 15 Euro / 20 US Dollars and a copy of their return flight ticket.

In recent months, Turkey has emerged as the 'must visit' destination for Indians vacationing overseas. With its rich cultural history, secular and democratic values, stunningly beautiful and varied landscapes, delicious fruits and cuisine, it is a country that fascinates every single visitor.

Having been anointed by the European Union as 'Europe's Cultural Capital for 2010', Istanbul is celebrating the honour with a series of major international exhibitions, theatre and music events, folk festivals and the like.
